

Graham Squance - Heritage Number 13

I won't prattle about heritage as it applies to GBWGC. Most went to sleep last time!

So, what traits does the number 13 imbue? It portrays focus (you see it in his knitted eyebrows), independence (has never obeyed the Club Captain), creativity (never seen so many inventive ways to get out of hazards) and a secure foundation (though his front leg does sway a fair bit on the follow through). It pretty much sums up Squancey's approach to golf, a game at which he has had great success with GBW.

But does he know that if he does anything new on the 13th day it will bring him positive results? And if you happen to be born on the 13th (well he's close – the 12th!), you'll possess the qualities of high intelligence and be street smart. Need I say more.

13 is an extremely important number, there being 13 cycles of the moon; each of the four seasons is 13 weeks; and the teenage years start at 13.

It's an excellent number for business as well assuring growth and winning outcomes and that's Squancey's forte.

It's no wonder his club heritage number was destined to be the number 13.

CONGRATULATIONS!
